

Somewhere Over-the Rhine: The Dean Family From Appalachia To Cincinnati

A family history of a father's ancestry, both the paternal side which is traced to Virginia in the mid-1700s, and the maternal ancestors who sailed the Atlantic from Baden, Germany, in the early 1800s. Researched and written by the oldest daughter and granddaughter, who always wanted to be a writer and remembers the stories gathered growing up in inner-city Cincinnati, in the Over-the-Rhine district and sometimes within a mile radius of the Rhine community. When the author's father is the third and oldest Dean son to die of Alzheimers, knowing she is the only one left to tell the stories she sets off on a four-and-a-half year journey to meet the ancestors she never knew and the memories she has of the ones she did know.
